

DANILA DELIANA, MD
Internal Medicine
Hospitalist
Abington Health Physicians

Danila DeLiana, MD, earned her medical degree, in the top 10% of her class, at the Mother Teresa University Hospital Center, Medical School in 1998. In 2002, she completed her internship in Hematology/Oncology and Cardiology at McGill University School of Medicine, General Jewish Hospital. She completed her residency in Internal Medicine in 2008 at Montefiore New Rochelle Hospital. Dr. Danila DeLiana is board certified in Internal Medicine.

Dr. DeLiana has published and presented research on topics such as: recurrent lower GI bleeding, staphylococcus schleiferi Native Valve Endocarditis, neuro endocrine tumor of gallbladder and hypernatremia, acute portal venous thrombosis, vascular effect of cocaine, and the potential errors in gender bias in genital examinations.

Dr. Danila DeLiana is fluent in French, Italian, and Albanian.

Background

Mother Teresa University Hospital Center,
Medical School
Tirana, Albania
(MD, 1998-2001)

Kosovo Crisis Center
Tirana, Albania
(Team Leader, 1999-1999)

United Nations Mission in Kosovo/International
Criminal Tribunal, Former Yugoslavia
NATO
US Army
(Consultant/Interpreter, 1999-2000)

McGill University School of Medicine, General
Jewish Hospital
Montreal, Canada
(Internship, Hematology/Oncology, &
Cardiology, 2002)

Montefiore New Rochelle Hospital
New Rochelle, NY
(Residency, Internal Medicine, 2005-2008)
(Core Faculty Member, Mentor, Hospitalist,
Internal Medicine, 2008-2014)

New York Medical College
Valhalla, NY
(Assistant Professor, Clinical Medicine, 2008-
2014)

St. George's University
Grenada, NY, West Indies
(Assistant Professor, Clinical Medicine, 2008-
2014)

White Plains Physician Associates of White Plains
Hospital
White Plains, NY
(Physician, Internal Medicine, 2014-2015)

Memberships

American College of Physicians (ACP)
American Medical Association (AMA)

Contact Information

Dr. Danila DeLiana can be reached at:

AH - Hospitalists
1200 Old York Road
Abington, PA 19001

Office: 215-481-2222
Fax: 215-481-4361