

LAURANCE D. SMITH, MD

Division of Neurology
Abington — Jefferson Health Physicians

Dr. Smith graduated from the University Of Pennsylvania College Of Arts and Sciences and the University Of Pennsylvania School Of Medicine. His internship was at the Albert Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia. After a neurology residency at Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, he completed a Neuromuscular Fellowship at the University of Colorado. Dr. Smith practices general neurology and is board certified in neurology. He is also board certified in electromyography (EMG) and has a special interest in neurological diseases affecting nerves and muscles. Dr. Smith has been with the Neurology group since 1987.

The Neurology Group is dedicated to the practice of comprehensive neurological care. Founded originally in Norristown in 1959, the group includes board-certified neurologists and a neuro- psychologist. Each physician has his/her own subspecialty areas of interest and also practices general neurology. Specialty areas include: Peripheral nerve and neuromuscular disease, cognitive disorders, neuro-ophthalmology, epilepsy and child neurology. The Neurology Group provides neurological care for patients at its Norristown, Collegeville and Flourtown offices.

Abington's Division of Neurology provides sub-specialty care for patients who suffered a stroke, with epilepsy, multiple sclerosis, gait disorders, cognitive impairment, Parkinson's disease, neuropathy and headaches.

The Neurosciences Institute at Abington Hospital — Jefferson Health provides comprehensive expertise in the diagnosis and treatment of neurological conditions. An evolution in services and the growth in the depth of the physicians on the neurosciences team have put us at the forefront in the treatment of brain, spinal cord and peripheral nerve disorders.
