

IGOR POROTOV, MD

Division of Neurology

Abington — Jefferson Health Physicians

Dr. Porotov graduated from medical school and received his medical degree from St. Petersburg State Medical Academy in Russia. He was a resident in pathology in St. Petersburg for one year. He completed a residency in internal medicine at Jersey Shore University Medical Center, followed by a residency in neurology at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center in Worcester. He completed his fellowship at U. Mass in clinical neurophysiology, after which he joined The Neurology Group. Dr. Porotov is board certified in neurology and practices general neurology with a special interest in electromyography (EMG) and electroencephalography (EEG).

The Neurology Group is dedicated to the practice of comprehensive neurological care. Founded originally in Norristown in 1959, the group includes board-certified neurologists and a neuro- psychologist. Each physician has his/her own subspecialty areas of interest and also practices general neurology. Specialty areas include: Peripheral nerve and neuromuscular disease, cognitive disorders, neuro-ophthalmology, epilepsy and child neurology. The Neurology Group provides neurological care for patients at its Norristown, Collegeville and Flourtown offices.

Abington's Division of Neurology provides sub-specialty care for patients who suffered a stroke, with epilepsy, multiple sclerosis, gait disorders, cognitive impairment, Parkinson's disease, neuropathy and headaches.

The Neurosciences Institute at Abington Hospital — Jefferson Health provides comprehensive expertise in the diagnosis and treatment of neurological conditions. An evolution in services and the growth in the depth of the physicians on the neurosciences team have put us at the forefront in the treatment of brain, spinal cord and peripheral nerve disorders.
